

Freight Safety Day - Thursday 10th September

How your company can save time, money and lives....

Overview

Safety is paramount in the freight logistics industry, but are you doing well enough? Who is doing best, and what are the top five things you can implement to improve the safety bottom line?

The TWU "Safe Rates" campaign is receiving headlines, and the TWU National Secretary, Tony Sheldon, will argue the merits of a link between rates and safety.

Separate expert panel sessions will explain and discuss how we can achieve safer vehicles, roads, drivers and safer communities.

The Guide to Safer Workplace Driving will be showcased - this a really useful resource for fleet managers. A final fleet managers panel session will bring together the topic for the day with "what safety improvements can we achieve and how do we get there?"

A separate breakout program on emergency response for the dangerous goods sector will also be convened in the morning.

Who should attend

CEOs, senior management, operations & fleet managers, OH&S managers, manufacturers, supply chain & logistics managers, purchasing managers, warehousing managers, compliance managers, equipment providers, technology vendors, consultants and regulators.
